

SOUTH DAKOTA

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

ISRAEL SD TRADE MISSION

In international news, Deputy Commissioner Joe Fiala participated in a second trade mission to Israel in partnership with South Dakota Trade and Governor Rhoden. They met with Isaac Herzog, the President of Israel, Mike Huckabee, the U.S. Ambassador, and several others to build strong relationships and discuss future trade opportunities.

Multiple businesses have shown interest in South Dakota, and our reps are actively working those leads.

If you see Deputy Commissioner Fiala, be sure to ask him about his trip!

GREENVILLE, SC

SITE SELECTOR TRIP

The Governor's Office of Economic Development is traveling to Greenville, SC to engage with local Site Selection firms. Our goal is to have in-person discussions and explore potential opportunities for growth and partnerships.

If this is something that your office is interested in attending, please reach out. Availability is limited to 4 individuals.

LASSO

RFI SYSTEM

In Lasso, any participant GOED invites to a project is set as a delegator. They have the authority to add, edit, and view their submissions. They can also invite other participants to be a delegate, collaborator, or contributor. With everyone initially being invited as a delegator by GOED, there is no need for a delegator to use the delegate function. Moving to collaborators, they are participants invited by a delegator and are given the same level of access and functionality as a delegator. Think of it as inviting a co-worker to help you with your project. Contributors are those invited by a participant but are given limited access. They only have permission to answer specified questions. For example, a utility partner granted access to utility questions. As we continue to use Lasso, it is important that EDOs remain active in their role of understanding their sites and using the capabilities of Lasso to their advantage.
